Latest Developments in Lyle Case

Mrs. Vimont Lyle, whose recent escapade in Lexington has created such widespread attention, returned to Danville, Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock and was immediately driven to the residence of her father, Mr. W. B. Holmes, where she remained over night. She was accompanied by her husband's cousin, Frank P. Kenney, and her attorney, S. S. Yantis, of Lexington.

Her father, feeling that it was unsafe to live in the house with her, on account of the condition of her mind, applied to the Boyle County Court for a writ for lunacy, which was issued by County Judge R. S. Nichols. Mrs. Lyle, who had been summoned to court, failed to appear. The Sheriff and Chief of Police had just secured a carriage and intended to force her to come to the court house, when they were notified by the attorneys that it had been decided to postpone the case until next Monday, when it is reported Mr. Lyle will arrive from New York.

While Mrs. Lyle belongs to one of the best and most aristocratic families in Danville and is an exceedingly handsome woman, little credence is given to the reports sent out from Lexington, which would indicate that there is a doubt as to her sanity. For months her queer actions have been the talk of Danville, and there are few, if any, in that city who do not believe that her's is a genuine case of lunacy. Not long since, while a Centre College carnival was in full blast on the college campus, she became offended at her father for some trivial reason and attempted to give him a public horse-whipping.

Married in Oklahoma.

News has come to the groom's family here of the marriage of Miss Mattie Belle Pugh to Mr. Victor Howard, which was solemnized last Sunday in Pawnee, Oklahoma, in the home of the officiating minister, Rev. Mr. Black, of the Methodist church. It is quite a surprise to Kentucky kinsmen and friends who knew that the two young people were engaged in former years, but had not heard of the renewal of the romance. Mr. Howard was formerly of Ruddles Mills, this county, but for the last two years has made his home at Pawhuska, Oklahoma, where he is in business as a cattle ranchman. He is the youngest brother of the late John H. Howard, who died a short time ago and was brought back to be buried in his old home at Paris just a few months before he was to have been married to Miss Margaret Pugh, sister of the bride. Two weeks ago Miss Ida Redmon, of this city, niece of Mr. Howard, with the Misses Pugh, left on a visit to her uncle's ranch, but did not know of the plans for the marriage. Shortly after their arrival the bride and bridegroom, with their attendants, Miss Margaret Pugh and Mr. K. H. Curtis, Miss Ida Redmon and Mr. G. R. Carter, drove 15 miles to Pawnee, where the wedding was celebrated. The bride is the beautiful daughter of Mr. George Pugh, of Lexington.

BESIEGED FORTRESS.

Final Assault on Port Arthur is Imminent.

Hundreds of Japanese Guns Have Been Poured Destruction Into the Russian Ranks and Weakened Their Lines.

Liao Yang, Aug. 23.—The following is supplied by a Russian correspondent:

With each additional report from Port Arthur wonder is increased both at the persistence of the Japanese attack and the heroic stubbornness of the defenders of the fortress. The Japanese are literally throwing away thousands of lives in the hope of shaking the courage of the Russian troops. Maj. Gen. Fock says he is confident the fortress can not be taken, but that if it is taken the whole Japanese army will have to immolate itself on the slopes of the fortifications.

There were five desperate assaults on Green Hill, July 26, the Japanese returning each time with apparently inexhaustible reinforcements. On the final assault, however, the Japanese broke badly, throwing away their guns, cartridge belts and even their boots to facilitate their flight, and leaving 7,000 dead or wounded.

Liao Yang, Aug. 24.—According to the latest information from Port Arthur, a furious attack throughout August 19 and August 20 was repulsed with terrific loss. This news was received here with the greatest joy.

There has been serious fighting in this region, but there has been a small skirmish at Anshanshan, where Japanese troops attacked a Russian outpost and were driven off with a loss of six.

Tokio, Aug. 25.—The final assault on Port Arthur is imminent, hundreds of Japanese guns continue to pour a destructive fire into the city and harbor, along the lines of forts and entrenchments preparatory for the infantry assault. It is evident that the Russian lines have been weakened and partly penetrated in the vicinity of Autzshan and Itzshan forts. The entire line of Russian defenses immediately about the harbor are within range of the Japanese guns. A number of Russian forts and batteries continue to be vigorous. The Japanese death roll will be heavily increased before they are captured.

The direction of the Japanese attack creates the impression here that the city and defenses on either side of the harbor entrance will fall first. The final stand will be made at Liao Tszan. Japanese official channels of information remained close and the navy department announcement of the striking of a mine by the battleship Sevastopol and the firing upon the Russian forts by the cruisers Nishin and Kasuga Tuesday are the only disclosures made for several days. It is believed that both sides have suffered heavy losses and that the final record will make the siege the bloodiest since Sedan. The Japanese are supremely confident of the ultimate result. The leaders of the government await the outcome in calm assurance. The people are everywhere decorating streets and houses and erecting arches and flagstays in preparation for a national celebration of the expected victory.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 25.—In spite of the anxiety which is felt regarding the fate of Port Arthur, the war office and the admiralty were practically closed Wednesday on account of the christening of the royal infant, and no official dispatches were given out.

So far as can be ascertained no further news of the progress of the fighting before the beleaguered fortresses has been received except that contained in reports from foreign sources. These latter are conflicting, some of them representing that the Japanese assault has become exhausted and others claiming that the Japanese have captured Itzshan fort, belonging to the western line of defenses. If this position has been taken and occupied, it is realized that unless the Japanese are at once dislodged the chain of forts will be breached and the position of Port Arthur rendered critical.

The simple fact that the day to which a large portion of the public looked forward with superstitious dread passed without the fall of the fortress suddenly encourages the population hope that the christening of the czarovitch will mark a turn in the tide. Reports that Gen. Kuropatkin is about to make an important move continue to be circulated, but the character of the move is not hinted at. As the reports from the front agree that the rains have ceased and that the roads are drying, a resumption of military activity is expected. Since his retirement from Simoucheng and the Yangtze pass it is estimated that more than 35,000 reinforcements have reached Gen. Kuropatkin.

London, Aug. 25.—The correspondent of the Times at Shanghai in a dispatch dated August 24 says that orders from Emperor Nicholas have been conveyed to Capt. Reitzenstein, commanding him forthwith to disarm the cruiser Askold and the torpedo boat destroyer Crozovoi, and that "the flags on both vessels were lowered at 7 o'clock to-night."

Russian Refugees.
Berlin, Aug. 25.—The number of Russian fugitives from military service entering Germany on their way to the United States and Great Britain increases daily and the German police authorities detain many and deliver them to the Russian frontier posts.

An Appeal For Aid.
St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 25.—A committee of business men, of which W. J. Kuntz is chairman, of Waconia, Minn., one of the villages struck by Saturday's storm, has issued an appeal for outside aid for those left destitute.

BUILDING TRADES LOCKOUT.

The Troubles Will Be Aired in the New York Courts.

New York, Aug. 24.—Subpoenaes were issued Tuesday by one of the judges of the court of special sessions, sitting as a magistrate, directing the appearance of six members of the Building Trades Employers' association before Acting District Attorney Rand Wednesday. The names of the men were not made public and Mr. Rand refused to talk of the case.

So far as can be learned this is the first move by the district attorney's office against the employers in the industrial fight in this city.

The People's Security Co., counsel for the unions, Monday submitted evidence against the employers to the district attorney and charges of "conspiracy," "coercion" and "blacklisting" were made.

Tuesday the company submitted additional evidence. The books of local No. 2 of the Journeymen Plumbers' and Gasfitters' union, of which Philip Weinsheimer is president, were taken to the district attorney's office Tuesday for the purpose of allowing Mr. Rand to inspect them. The acting district attorney, it is said, will use certain information gleaned from the books in preparing the case of extortion now pending against Weinsheimer.

J. C. Hatzel, one of the members of the board of governors of the Building Trades Employers' association, admitted Tuesday night that he was one of the six men on whom subpoenaes had been served.

"Yes, I have been subpoenaed," he said. "The subpoenaes require me to appear in court. It also states I am to produce my books, my contracts and my trade association agreements. I shall obey the subpoenae."

Mr. Hatzel is head of the Electrical Contractors' association.

By a vote of the representatives of all the unions in the Building Trades Alliance which had not yet either struck or been locked out, it was decided Tuesday that they will join the strike at whatever moment the executive committee of the alliance may call on them to do so.

The alliance press committee announced after the meeting that the executive committee will meet and withdraw all alliance men from all jobs controlled or contracted for by any member of the Building Trades Employers' association. This will mean a general strike in the building trades, in so far as the alliance can make it so, and the tie up of operations will become more nearly complete.

POSTMASTER GENERAL PAYNE.

He Ignores a Summons to Appear in a Justice's Court.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—Postmaster General Henry C. Payne was Tuesday served with a summons to appear in a justice court in this city on August 26, as a witness in a case against Chauncey M. Depew. The postmaster general did not receive the summons with pleasure, and informed the constable, John Simons, that he would ignore it entirely.

"Not only did he say that," declared Simons, "but when I offered him 50 cents for witness fees, and even added ten cents for mileage, he threw the money in my face."

Last June when Senator Depew was in Chicago attending the republican national convention, he was sued by S. G. Bradrock, of this city, who declared that he had in some manner been defrauded by a concern called the Penny Publishing Co., with which he asserted Senator Depew had been connected in 1902.

PHILIPPINE CURRENCY.

The New System Is Gradually Driving Out the Mexican Dollar.

Washington, Aug. 24.—When the new currency system was proposed for the Philippines there were predictions in some quarters that the conservative islanders could not be readily induced to surrender the Mexican dollars and the Spanish coin with which they had been familiar for so many years in favor of the new Philippine peso proposed by the commission. But reports received here show that the change has been made smoothly and more expeditiously than was thought possible.

KILLING OF THE GUARDSMAN.

The War Department Will Make An Investigation.

Washington, Aug. 23.—A telegram was received at the war department Monday from Gen. Bates at St. Louis in answer to Secretary Taft's request for a report on the facts connected with the killing by regular soldiers of a national guardsman at Athens, O., last week. Gen. Bates says that he has been unable thus far to secure the information desired but adds that he has called on the local military authorities at Athens to report the facts at once, when he will forward them to the department.

Battleship Sevastopol Struck a Mine.

AN ANNUAL REPORT.

Cost of Maintaining the Pension System the Past Year.

Total Number Pensioners Covered By Report 720,315 Soldiers, 273,841 Widows and Dependents and 606 Army Nurses.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The annual report of Pension Commissioner Ware, covering the fiscal year ended June 30, 1904, was made public Wednesday by the acting secretary of the interior. The report shows that during the year the cost of maintaining the pension system of the government has been $144,712,787. The appropriation for this purpose was $146,419,296, leaving an unexpended balance of $1,706,508. During the year 47,374 persons were added to the pension rolls—326 by special act of congress and the balance by the pension bureau. During the same period 49,157 pensioners were dropped from the rolls. Of these death claimed 43,820, of whom 31,728 were soldiers, 30,071 being volunteers of the civil war. The total number of pensioners on the rolls as covered by the report is 720,315 soldiers, 273,841 widows and dependents and 606 army nurses.

The report refers to the order issued by the commissioner March 16 last, in which age is made evidence of disability and says that three and a half months of its operation only 8 per cent, or 28,806 out of the 375,000 pensioners, have asked for increase under its terms. The report says the order introduces no new principle, and "is in the direct line of economy, as it certainly is in the line of precedent." Less than 6 per cent of the appropriation of $1,500,000 was used to pay claimants under the order, the balance being turned back into the treasury.

SUBMARINE TORPEDO BOAT.

The Shark Sunk to the Bottom in 100 Feet of Water.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 25.—It became known that while the submarine torpedo boat Shark was being prepared for a submerged run near Brenton's reef lightship Monday afternoon she sank to the bottom in 100 feet of water and remained there for some time before the crew could move her. The cause of the sinking is not known. Lieut. Nelson was in charge of the boat, with Lieut. Shepley and a crew of eight men aboard. The men displayed no excitement over the situation, but tried a number of experiments before the boat could be raised. Finally, after 40 minutes, they succeeded by use of the hand pumps in bringing her to the surface. The boat apparently was not damaged.

FIREMEN'S TOURNAMENT.

It Opened in the Stadium Before a Large Crowd.

St. Louis, Aug. 25.—The tournament of the National Firemen's association opened in the stadium Wednesday before a large crowd. The principal event of the day was the dry hose race, which was run with hose carts over a course of 250 yards. The event was won by the Arocla hose team, the state champions of Illinois, in 35.3 seconds. Bridgeport, O., was second, in 36 seconds flat.

Other white men and Negroes are accused and a number of warrants have been issued.

A Joint State Convention.

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 25.—Chairman Ferriss, of the national people's party committee, announced that he had arranged for a joint state convention of the "mid-road" populists and fusionists of Indiana, at Indianapolis, August 31.

Won a Rich Stake.

Readville, Mass., Aug. 25.—The Massachusetts state, the richest prize on the harness turf for 1904, valued at $15,000, was won by Consuela S., after five fiercely contested heats. There were 12 starters. Best time, 2:07 1/2.

THE DEPORTED MEN.

They File Criminal Information Against Mob Leaders.

Cripple Creek, Col., Aug. 25.—Ten criminal informations were filed in the district court Wednesday by Deputy District Attorney Charles C. Butler, charging about 75 persons, including a number of the most prominent citizens of the district with being leaders of the mob that deported a dozen or more men from the district last Saturday. The informations were based upon affidavits prepared in Denver by the men who were driven from the camp. Nine of the informations contain two counts and the tenth three counts. The defendants named in all of the complaints are practically the same. The charges include conspiracy, malicious mischief, larceny, false imprisonment and assault to kill. It will require 250 caplases to complete the service upon the defendants named in the informations and they can not be prepared before late Thursday. Bonds have been arranged in sums of $500 and $1,000.

Two men were arrested by Sheriff Bell Wednesday while attempting to deport Hermann Herz, a clothing merchant of Goldfield, from the district. In company with one other, they forced Herz at the point of revolvers to accompany them, saying he was wanted at Independence. After the men had left with their prisoner Herz's son telephoned Sheriff Bell of the occurrence, and the latter, with two deputies, overtook the would-be deporters and their victim, and arrested two of the former. Herz was then given over to one of the deputies which is now guarding him to prevent any further efforts to send him away.

WANT FEDERAL TROOPS.

Effort to Be Made to Have Them Sent to South Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 25.—T. J. Mahoney, one of the attorneys for the South Omaha packing interests, Wednesday made the statement that efforts were being made on the part of his clients and their associates to have federal troops stationed at South Omaha and along the railroads leading to Omaha over which the packers are running morning and evening a chartered train for the accommodation of their present workmen.

Washington, Aug. 25.—In the absence of any official intimation that the aid of the federal government is to be invoked at Omaha in behalf of the packing interests the responsible officials of the administration in Washington prefer not to discuss what course might be followed if such a request comes, except to say that it would depend altogether on the showing that might be made. It is pointed out very clearly by them, however, that a request for federal assistance must come from the legislature of the state or from the governor. In that event the matter would be promptly taken up for consideration.

LUXURY OF TRAVEL

NATIVES OF THE SOUTH SEA ISLANDS ENJOY IT.

When Going on a Journey They Take All the Comforts of the Home with Them, But These Are Few.

The up-to-date tourist who has the modern convenience of the Pullman palace car, of the observation car and all the extravagance and luxury that goes to make up one of the limited trains, of which we are so boastful, no doubt thinks that he has at last all the comforts that may attend traveling humanity.

He is mistaken. He may take a trip to the antipodes and find there that he never knew what it meant to take a trip with all the comforts of home.

Of course there is a difference in what one's home comforts consist of,

TRAVELING WITH ALL THE COMFORTS OF HOME.

but would it not be pleasant to travel with the best of your own particular possessions at your hand. This is the way the natives of the South Sea Islands travel. It is most laughable and interesting, too, to watch these people in their daily life.

With the ordinary citizen of our country a trip or an extended visit to friends is a most momentous occasion, planned for months and enjoyed in anticipation. No such weighty consideration is ever indulged in by the simpler races.

Suppose this to be a glorious morning at any season of the year, January vies with June in the splendor of her days, there is nothing special to do (there never is), let us visit. Well and good, we shall visit, whom, where? It matters but little, these islands are not large, generations of intermarriage have given relatives galore in every port. Enough, we make ready. Last year that forerunner of civilization, the traveling salesman, was in our midst, now, accordingly, we possess the sewing machine, the kerosine lamp and the bicycle. The white woman has come upon us, tourists are beginning to come this way and the strong arm of fashion has gathered us in, mats are going out of style and the Mother Hubbard is coming on apace. These signs of progress are our greatest pride and where we go the sewing machine and the bicycle goes. I saw one family traveling accompanied by a black iron bed with spiral springs.

Into the long canoe goes these articles of the domestic hearth, then piles of mats; of clothes there is probably not enough to bother about packing, strings of beads go handily about one's neck and superfluous drapery hangs over the arm. Of course there are the pigs, dear family friends, why should they be left behind. In they go, legs tied together, and squalling like mad. Now the babies, all in together, who care, they are our own pigs, the babes and the bicycles are pride of our hearts. Who cavils at the good things of life.

Between some of the larger islands goes a small steamer, but the natives usually prefer their own canoe, and I have met 100 miles out at sea a long canoe with a sail and perhaps a dozen oarsmen, all bright with gay color, the stroke keeping time to the lilt of the happy song.

Is this not the acme of happiness, your dearest at your side, your treasures at your feet, all care banished and providence for the morrow well assured?

Until you can take your first trip with such contented mind, never believe that you have tasted the true luxury of travel.

A Continual Strain.

Many men and women are constantly subjected to what they commonly term "a continual strain" because of some financial or family trouble. It wears and distresses them both mentally and physically, affecting their nerves badly and bringing on liver and kidney ailments, with the attendant evils of constipation, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, low vitality and despondency. They cannot, as a rule, get rid of this "continual strain," but they can remedy its health destroying effects by taking frequent doses of Green's August Flower. It tones up the liver, stimulates the kidneys, insures healthy bodily functions, gives vim and spirit to one's whole being, and eventually dispels the physical or mental distress caused by that "continual strain." Trial bottle of August Flower, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.

Healthy Mothers.

Mothers should always keep in good bodily health. They owe it to their children. Yet it is no unusual sight to see a mother, with babe in arms, coughing violently and exhibiting all the symptoms of a consumptive tendency. And why should this dangerous condition exist, dangerous alike to mother and child, when Dr. Boesche's German Syrup would put a stop to it at once? No mother should be without this old and tried remedy in the home—for its timely use will promptly cure any lung, throat or bronchial trouble in herself or her children. The worst cough or cold can be speedily cured by German Syrup, so can hoarseness and congestion of the bronchial tubes. It makes expectoration easy, and gives instant relief and refreshing rest to the cough-racked consumptive. New trial bottles, 25c; large size 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.

FOR CONGRESS—

HON. SOUTH TRIMBLE,

of Franklin County

FOR APPELLATE JUDGE,

JUDGE JAMES E. CANTRILL.

In this issue we announce Dr. Wm. Kenney as candidate for re-election for Coroner of Bourbon. We can safely say that Bourbon county has never had a better or more efficient Coroner than Dr. Kenney. He has in every way made a model officer, and no one is more competent to fill this most important office. We have not heard of any opposition to him and, no doubt, there will be none.

Error vs. Error.

The game yesterday afternoon between the Paris Blues and Frankfort team was crowded with features, the most prominent were the errors made by both teams.

In one inning the Paris boys knocked South, one of Frankfort's champion twirlers, out of the box. After that the interest went up in a balloon for it was nothing but error after error. It looked strange too, for both are good teams. The score stood 14 to 10 in favor of Paris.

Dumb Brutes Are Even Robbed.

Paris at present has all sizes and classes of burglars. On Monday night, Mr. Clarke Barnett, who lives on Brent avenue, had burglars to enter his stable and pull all of the shoes off his old family mare and make away with them.

This was some fellow, no doubt, that wanted to cut down expenses and get four shoes for his horse without any charge, or perhaps it was just d—n meanness of some cuss that is not as good as the mare. Mr. Barnett says he is thankful that the old mare was left.

Bell's Court, Tuesday, at Lexington, being fined $1 and cost for his part in the performance.

It will be remembered that Thomas had Conductor Rose, arrested for calling him down, but the warrant was dismissed against Rose, who turned the tables on the negro by having him arrested for using insulting and abusive language. The accused was represented by Judge Geo. Denny.

Talented Ashland Author.

Kentucky is soon to put before the book-loving people the work of a talented young author, which will at once place him in the front ranks. Frederick W. Book worms want to watch for this new book, and we are sure they will at once become interested in the writings of this brilliant young mountain boy.

Policies Taxed.

State Attorney General Hays, Wednesday, delivered an opinion, in response to a query put by Auditor Hager, that policies of life insurance are taxable under the constitution and laws of Kentucky, the assessment of each to be its guaranteed or estimated cash surrender value. The opinion, if sustained by the court, to which the question will be taken at once, will affect thousands of policy holders in Kentucky, assessment being made on the holder.

The question was raised by a mountain county Assessor and by Bruce Hindman, of Louisville, State agent for an insurance company of New York. The Assessor sought to assess for taxation under the general tax laws of the State two paid-up policies of insurance, one of which bears interest.

Fell From the "Shack."

Harry Durham, aged 14 years, son of Robt. Durham, and grandson of Judge Milton Durham, of Lexington, fell and broke his leg, on Wednesday. The boys of South Main street have built a house in the top of a tree on the Ingels property, near the cemetery, about 45 feet from the ground, and call it "The Shack." Young Durham was going up the ladder with a bucket of water, in his hand, and when near the top, lost his hold and fell to the ground, a distance of 40 feet, breaking his left leg between the knee and thigh. It was a miracle that he was not killed.

The boys would cook and eat in "The Shack," and sometimes sleep. It is useless to say that "The Shack" has been condemned by all mothers in that end of town, and will come down. It is worth your while to go and take a look at it.

Dr. Wm. Kenney, assisted by Dr. Anderson, attended young Durham, who is doing nicely.

Will of Mrs. Martha F. Brent.

The will of Mrs. Martha F. Brent was probated in the County Court Wednesday. It is a lengthy document of ten typewritten pages of legal cap.

By the will N. Ford Brent, of this city, and A. G. Simrall, of Covington, are made executors without bond. During her life she had advanced to each of her children $11,000. After her death 37 shares of Citizen Bank stock and the Red Leaf plantation in Arkansas is to be divided equally between Nicholas F. Brent (now deceased) and Mary F. Hall, unless W. W. Ford (now deceased) makes his share equal with his sisters, then the above to be divided into thirds.

The will gives to Mrs. Cordelia Parker and Mrs. Sallie Talbott $100 each, and leaves in trust $500, the interest of which is to go toward paying the rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Mrs. Winifred Ford, the wife of her son, J. K. Ford, was left $11,000 during her life, but as Mrs. Ford had paid her a $5,000 note, in a codicil she recalls this and states that she gives her the $5,000 note and cancels the bequest to her in original will.

The will was written in 1897, and the last codicil added in 1904.

Youthful Train Wreckers.

On Monday night, at Escondida, this county, the fast freight going South, in charge of Conductor Everett Sorrell, was derailed by striking a fence post placed in the switch, evidently for the purpose of wrecking the fast passenger train that was about due to pass this point going North. The freight happened along first and had slowed up to take the siding, which probably saved a terrible loss of life.

Only the engine of the freight left the track, but it took several hours to put things in running order.

L. & N. Detective A. S. Summers went to work on the case at once and arrested William Burris, white, aged 10, and Lewis Washington, colored, aged 11. After being brought to town Wednesday they confessed, and their trial is set for this morning, at 9 o'clock, before Judge H. C. Smith.

The Burris boy ran away from his home at Winchester last May and has since been living with his cousin, Bayless Grigsby, near Escondida. The colored boy, Washington, lives in the same neighborhood, and of late the two have been boon companions and committing many minor offenses in that part of the county.

Desperate Encounter With a Burglar.

On Tuesday night, Mr. Grant Buchanan, who lives in the Ramp property, on Convent Heights, had a most desperate encounter with a burglar, and for awhile the residents of that vicinity thought the Japs and Russians had removed basis of operations to their neighborhood. About 11 o'clock Mr. Buchanan heard some one trying to get in his parlor window. He slipped out of the house quietly and found the burglar on a couple of planks taking out the screen, the window being about six feet from the ground. When in about eight feet of the man he opened fire with his shotgun, the man falling to the ground. He then put his gun almost against his head and the other barrel would not go off. The burglar then jumped up and fired two shots at Buchanan with a pistol and saw. In going through a small gate in rear, the burglar ran against a post and fell back almost into his arms. Then they had a terrible hand to hand tussle for at least ten minutes, when the burglar struck him in the head with butt of his pistol, which stunned him. The burglar then started to run again and each fired two more shots at one another. By this time the neighborhood was thoroughly aroused and about half a dozen, each carrying a double-barrel shotgun, searched in every conceivable place for him, but he skipped for good. Mr. Buchanan says he was a white man and that he is confident that his first shot hit him in the leg.

It was reported Wednesday morning that the man was seen by two colored boys lying on an old mattress on the Lyle Cliff in that neighborhood. The mattress was found by the posse, but the wounded burglar had "flew the coop." It was said he could hardly walk when he took his leave.

Fast Game Sunday.

The fastest game of baseball played in Paris this season will undoubtedly be played here Sunday afternoon. The Regulars are to cross bats with the Cincinnati Ravens, which is one of the very best semi-professional teams in Cincinnati, if not the best. The Paris Regulars have won 15 games out of 21 from the best semi-professional clubs in Kentucky and Ohio. It has been greatly strengthened by the addition of Mill, catcher, and Browning third baseman, both of Mt. Sterling. If you want to see a game of ball that will equal half of the professional games played in the country, be sure and attend this game Sunday afternoon.

Geoper and Hill will be the battery for the Regulars, and Button and Watterman for Ravens.

SWEET SORROW OF PARTING.

"Good-night," he said; the parlor light was soft and dim and low.
 "Good-night," he breathed again; "Good-night."
 It's time that I should go."
 She rose and smiled into his eyes, then shyly bent her head.
 "Good-night," he murmured, lovelier; and then, "Good-night," he said.
 "Good-night"—Ten minutes later, they were standing in the hall.
 But he was on his homeward way.
 "Good-night"—he was so tall.
 Her head came barely to his heart, and she was fair and slight.
 "The hour has come for us to part," he said, "and so, 'Good-night.'"
 "Good-night"—A half hour had gone; he had his hat and coat on.
 And said that he must hurry on.
 Then said "Good-night" again.
 "Good-night," "Good-night," "Good-night," and so.
 "Good-night," they ever sighed.
 "Twas really time for him to go."
 "Good-night"—the door swung wide.
 "Good-night," he said, and took her hand: An hour or so went by;
 "Good-night"—The stars could not understand The grayness of the sky.
 "Good-night," again, and then "Good-night."
 Upon the steps they stood;
 "Good-night"—He kissed her fingers white, As every lover should.
 "Good-night"—The eastern sky grew pink As though about to blush;
 "Good-night"—The stars began to wink, The breeze whispered: "Hush."
 Soon on their ears there clanged a knell That smote them with afright—
 The ringing of the breakfast bell—
 That time he said "Good-night!"

REGINA

By GRACE FRANCES BIRD

(Copyright, 1904, by the Short Story Publishing Co. All rights reserved.)

HERE came to Harvard university in the early '60s a little Japanese lad, Nagoya by name. And a droll addition he was to the student body of that institution's less cosmopolitan days. Still the contrast was by no means to the disadvantage of the young Japanese. Though of rather short stature, his like, graceful body was in perfect proportion, while his wonderful exploits in the gymnasium continually astounded those who mistook his delicate appearance for an index of his physique. His queer olive face, merry little eyes and comically melancholy mouth proved all the more fascinating because of their unlikeliness to the more sternly cut features of his classmates; while through its contrast to the harsher New England accent his soft, gentle voice with its quaint intonations gained a piquant charm, whether heard in conversation or recitation. Being, besides, bright, jovial and affectionate, Nagoya at once became a great favorite with the students, while his frankness, integrity and persistent application soon won the favor of the most stony-hearted professors. Indeed, popular as he was among the students, it was soon noted with some surprise that Nagoya chiefly sought the companionship of older men. In this, however, the little Japanese was simply following out his instructions. For he had come to Harvard in accordance with a long-established custom of the Japanese government, which sends at frequent intervals, to the educational institutions of other countries, youth selected from the flower of the nobility, that thus the nation may benefit by its rivals' important discoveries and inventive devices.

His especial friend and confidant was Prof. Bernardini, instructor in the scientific department. The two were constantly together, whether experimenting in the laboratory, reading in the library, or botanizing in long rambles into the country. Indeed, within a short time such a strong attachment had sprung up between them that the professor proposed to receive Nagoya into his home as a member of the family during the remainder of his college days; an offer that Nagoya gratefully accepted, no less because of the delightful home life thus opened to him than because of the opportunity for close association with a people whose manners and customs he was studying. And for this purpose the Japanese lad could not have found a better household. The family was not large; it consisted only of the professor, his gentle American wife, and three children, who, being not far from Nagoya's age, proved especially agreeable companions. Of these the two elder were boys—Nagoya's classmates—bright, honest fellows, full of healthy animation and enthusiasm. The third was a sweet little maid of 12—Regina, the baby of the family—a roguish little tyrant with great black eyes, very long curls, and very short skirts. Altogether Regina was an absolute autocrat, and lived her name by ruling the members of her household with a despotism that amazed the young Japanese, accustomed to the submissive woman of the Orient.

For four years Nagoya remained in the happy American home, becoming with each day more and more attached to his foster relatives. He was, as a matter of course, a devoted admirer of the professor and his wife, and the constant companion of the boys, while Regina—well, Nagoya had long since ceased to wonder at the homage tendered the little queen by her devoted subjects. In fact, despite the lack of years on both sides, the young Japanese had fallen deeply in love with little Regina Bernardini.

Coming as he did from a land where children are wedded when barely in their teens, Nagoya saw nothing that was not perfectly natural in this youthful attachment, and cherished fond dreams of the bright future when he should sail with his dear one to the land of the rising sun.

Meantime the Bernardinis had never for an instant guessed the young oriental's secret romance. To them his open caresses and love avowals, his pretty gifts to their little daughter, seemed only the tokens of one child's grateful affection for another. So that when, a few weeks previous to his departure, Nagoya laid before the professor the pathetic little tale of his love and hopes, that individual was as much taken aback as though a bomb had been exploded at his feet.

Of course the proposal was not to be considered. Very gently the professor explained to his young comrade the situation as viewed by American eyes, dwelling upon Regina's youth and innocence and her unsuspecting affection for him, which could never attain greater depth.

The young oriental bore the news quietly, but from that time his spirits drooped; his elastic step grew languid, his joyous laughter silent, until finally his friends feared lest some breakdown should follow this seeming apathy.

But they had underestimated the strength of Nagoya's character. During the few remaining days of his stay he pursued his customary duties with dogged determination; only now his slow, mechanical movements were never relieved by the enthusiasm once so characteristic of the lad, nor was his dreamy, gentle voice ever raised in merry banter or laughing repartee.

On the day of his departure Nagoya was walking, as was his wont, in the little garden behind the house. A sudden turn in the path disclosed Regina swaying idly in a hammock. She wore a dress of fleecy whiteness. A dainty cap rested on her shining black curls, her dark eyes gazed dreamily up through the branches to the blue of the summer sky. As Nagoya approached she turned, looking at him half regretfully, half eagerly.

"Don't rise," said the lad, gently. "I have come for one last word—a farewell. Soon Nagoya leaves you. Ah, my land of the rising sun will be the land of the setting sun without you, my Regina. One taken I leave you, the seed of our royal flower, the chrysanthemum. Tell no one I gave it, for it is of chrysanthemums the queen, and he who gives the seed to a foreigner is under death penalty. Give it to your dear name, Regina—queen. As its flowers bud and blossom, remember, so will Nagoya's love for you bloom, growing, growing forever. And now farewell, my Regina, my queen."

Placing the packet in her hand, he turned away. That night he left America, never to return.

When the next year the seeds were planted, and a gorgeous pink flower reared its head into the sunlight, Regina gave it her name. Soon the Regina chrysanthemum, the most beautiful ever known to the horticultural world, was the wonder of the season. Visitors came from great distances to see the lovely blossoms. But Regina never forgot the secret significance of the flowers as they budded and blossomed, and, thinking of the Japanese boy's pathetic farewell, would whisper with a sigh: "Poor Nagoya."

Seven years later Regina married. But in her new happiness she did not forget her old friend. When she changed her reign from her father's home to her husband's she would have no other name for her new home than Chrysanthemum Lodge. One of the first stories that she told her little son, John Ambrose, was of the young Japanese who had played with her when she was a little girl; and no story-book fairyland pleased him half so well as his mother's descriptions of Nagoya's home, that queer, delightful, fantastic country on the other side of the world.

It was a day early during the recent war between Japan and China. In his private office the Japanese sloop, or minister of war, sat closeted with an official who was the bearer of a petition for pardon from a prisoner lately condemned to death. The offender was a United States naval cadet accused of secretly aiding the Chinese forces, and appealing now to the sloop as the one person whose intercession could save his life. Already, however, the impassive featured minister of war had practically dismissed the case, when, as a matter of form, he tore open the envelope sent him by the prisoner. A sudden spasm of pain crossed the sloop's face, as from the inner wrappings of soft tissue paper there fell a faded photograph of a lovely little girl and a few scattering chrysanthemum seeds. Very reverently, and all unmindful of the astonishment of the official, the great man bent and pressed the little card to his lips. Then, as he read upon the back the words in which Regina introduced her son to her old friend and playmate, he turned to his visitor:

"Yarmatto, draw up an order for the immediate release of John Ambrose, an American prisoner sentenced to death, on a charge of having given aid to the Chinese; see that it is put into effect at once, and that the prisoner is brought to me."

Five minutes later Nagoya turned to his work, wearing the same austere mask as before. Five hours later he was reading, with perfectly controlled features, the cabled message of heartfelt gratitude from John Ambrose's mother, at last relieved from the awful suspense of her son's long silence, while John Ambrose himself stood by, his ardent thankfulness shining in the dark eyes so like Regina's.

But neither John Ambrose nor Regina herself will ever guess that for many days the picture and a packet of chrysanthemum seeds lay close to the great man's heart—the patient heart in which, as the boy Nagoya had foretold, his love for Regina had "bloomed, growing, growing forever."

And so it was that the tiny seeds sown so many years before in an American garden bore their perfect flower in the land of the rising sun.

No Doubt.

"You know, genius has been defined as an intense capacity for hard work."

"Yes, I suppose it would be much more satisfactory if it were a labor-saving device."—Judge.

The Energetic Son of the House of Vanderbilt

Achieving Distinction and Success Along Independent Lines.

THE Vanderbilts are always with us in newspaperdom, though we all get a little weary of reading of their doings in distant society; but young Cornelius Vanderbilt is a uniquely interesting figure, an unusual son of wealth. Belonging to the fourth generation of rich Vanderbilts, he is no idler, no mere pleasure-seeker, no dilettante player at life; but a worker, a man of action and sustained energy. He is not at all blatant, however; naturally retiring and modest, he quietly pursues the even tenor of his way, doing his day's work without fuss or acclaim.

Recently come back from a European tour (taken on the imperative order of his physician) he has again donned his working clothes and resumed the labors for which he has shown peculiar aptitude. Yesterday we read of him as dining with the unapproachable Kaiser on board the Kaiser's yacht; to-day we hear of his return to the machine shop.

When this Vanderbilt left school, now quite a number of years ago, he at and in this case Cornelius Vanderbilt experienced a fate similar to that which befell his great-uncle Cornelius years and years ago; who, though the eldest son of the bluff commodore, was not treated with generosity by his father's will; inheriting only an annuity, the income on $200,000, whilst his brother received a patrimony of about $90,000,000.

The great-uncle Cornelius was cast off because of lack of financial genius and because he had led a gay life than approved by his stern old father; young Cornelius failed to receive the mantle of head of the family for the reason that he stubbornly insisted on marrying the lady of his choice, flatly refusing to give up the girl disliked by his parents. As Frank Lewis Ford, writing in Munsay, puts it: "He decided to show that one of his name could dare magnificently. He threw over the headship of his house and wealth so great that it is but a sound and not a reality to the average mind, to marry the woman whom he desired for a wife. Here at last the generations had produced a Vanderbilt who once went on with the regular routine of study, laboring away over his engineering, and later taking a post-graduate course in the subject at Yale. The theoretical side he studied very thoroughly, and did not by any means neglect the practical, entering the shops of the New York Central railroad as a machinist and working his way step by step through the various divisions of the department entered, the motive department. Incredible friends expected the young Vanderbilt would presently tire of his hobby, but the years have proven the hobby a chosen profession, and shown the choice no unwise one. This Vanderbilt engineer and machinist has invented some 20 improvements in railroad apknow how to part with his money in a different way from the traditions of the family."

The lady was Miss Grace Wilson, member of a prominent New York family of considerable wealth, a lady of beauty, spirit and social graces. If her husband had had occasion ever to regret this choice not the slightest word has ever reached public notice. It would appear that Mrs. Cornelius is a woman well mated with the family she has entered, and each year sees her rise in power and popularity. As a social leader the young woman is taking wondrous strides, and proving herself equal to any demands that might have been made upon the wife of the head of the house of Vanderbilt. During the American visit of Prince Henry she was one of three private hostesses that entertained him; the wife of the president and Mrs. Ogden Mills being the other two. At Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt's dinner, though of course the whole affair was managed on a grand scale, yet the marked feature of the occasion was beauty rather than glitter.

Rumor says the elder Vanderbilts objected to Miss Wilson because they so disapproved of the social ambitions and match-making of the young lady's mother, did not want a Vanderbilt married out of hand as it were. Mrs. Wilson's children certainly have done their mother credit, if this report of her be true, for from a worldly point of view they have all made excellent matches; Orme Wilson married a Miss Astor, one daughter is the widow of Ogden Goebel, and another daughter married the well known Englishman, Mr. Michael Herbert. No wonder, then, at least a Vanderbilt was desired for Miss Grace Wilson. The father is R. T. Wilson, the millionaire.

The will that cut Cornelius off with a million left to one son and the two daughters about $7,500,000 each. When the will was read, Alfred offered Cornelius enough of his own large share to bring the latter's amount up to that received by the third son and the two daughters. The proposition was accepted, and Cornelius thus saved from penury or from litigation. The family break, which had beginning in Cornelius' avowed devotion to Miss Wilson, has been reported from time to time as about to be mended; the papers tell us that Mrs. Cornelius has won over the family; that Mrs. Cornelius' baby has broken the ice. At any rate, the breach does not seem to have widened.

Levy and Cohen came out of the syna-

Levy approached Cohen and extended a great flat hand.

Cohen silently shook.

"Now, Cohen," continued the reconcil-

Drinks were ordered and set before them.

Cohen, convinced at last of the sincerity of the other's advances, spoke for the

"Levy," he said, "I am glad of it. I

"Mit all my heart," replied Levy, and raised his glass in toast. "Cohen, my dear

The growing smile faded from Cohen's face and he set his glass down with a bang.

"By Abraham!" he exclaimed. "Now

Some Predictions for Fall

LAST season efforts were made to do away suddenly with the long coat, and even some of the best modistes declared its day quite over; but all signs point to a great vogue this coming fall for the long wrap.
Efforts also were made to establish the tight-fitting corset coat as the only style, but not successfully; coats promise much diversity, some longer and looser than ever appear fairly to fall off the shoulders of the wearer. The coat shown in the cut is excellent in style, not extreme in mode, and suitable for many occasions. It is constructed of white material and trimmed with wide braid, which, by the way, will be employed extensively the coming season.

Another fallacy proven to be such is concerning the separate blouse. Though

VERY FASHIONABLE LONG COAT suits are an accepted mode, yet the utility of the odd waist makes it a necessary part of the wardrobe. The one in the illustration is a style that would not look out of place at any hour of the day, being simple enough for the morning and dressy enough for evening. It should be made of soft material, crepe de chine, challis, or mull, which easily adapt themselves to the shirring and allow for much fullness. If the deep epau-lettes and band down the front are of Tenerife embroidery worked on the goods of which the waist is fashioned the effect could not be improved, either as regards modishness or beauty.

Colored linen gowns have been a marked feature of the summer, and no doubt will continue to be much worn during the kindly days of autumn. They are generally becoming, have an air of softness and richness, pack away easily, and have the advantage of looking fresh after considerable wear. Blue in many shades, varying from goblin to delft, have been very popular, robin's-egg a marked favorite among well-dressed women. Undyed linens have continued in vogue, and linen gowns of mauve, raspberry-red, and pale yellow have been seen. Buff chambray, an old, old favorite, the Parisians have used not a little, but it has not yet obtained on this side. Paris has also been more taken with printed borders for summer dress trimmings, the shops here showing a few samples, but one seldom seeing the bordered dresses worn.

Hand embroidery appears on everything nowadays, from chemise to hem of the outer garment. Yesterday I made a tour of the shops and at one was shown a hand-made waist just brought in, one of the new fall models. It was of softest, richest, creamiest messaline, elaborately trimmed with inset work simulating a yoke; stock and cuffs with more simple needlework decoration. The sleeves were enormous, the blouse quite full—in spite of rumors concerning the going-out of the latter style. Although so much labor had been spent on the waist, the effect was of elegant simplicity. The price for the simplicity was $42.

In regard to the tourist wrap it seems to be another article of apparel that has made itself more or less of a necessity.
There is not a great deal of opportunity to introduce many novelties in this particular one of my lady's wraps, and all the best dealers are able to do in the way of departure is to make some small distinguishing feature a trade-mark, a certain turn to the collar, a bit of change in the cut, and now we have a small outside pocket appearing, not only for the convenience of the wearer, but to give a chic addition to the garment. Vells to match the wrap, gloves, shoes and hose of the same color, mark the costume of this season's traveler.

As many dames and damsels are looking forward to a visit to the St. Louis fair when they can feel reasonably sure regarding the climate of that southern city, perhaps it might be well to say a few words concerning an approved fall costume. First and foremost the short skirt, one sees no long gowns there, everybody seems to have adopted the ankle length, or at least made way with the trailing petticoats with which we have been afflicted so many years. Short silk suits, shirt-waist suits of pongee, linen, or of the cottons now considered so acceptable, will be worn in St. Louis far into October; light-weight garments easy to go about in, not hampering, not easily soiled. Chatelaine bags that do not trouble the arm or worry the mind, are the best for the exposition visitor, and are shown in a variety of styles and safety clasps.

The enterprising merchant of the present gets well rid of the past season's stock before setting forth the glories of an advancing one, and though the summer sales are almost over still one may yet pick up very decided bargains in the stores; odds and ends of fine material to use for next year's demands, and leftover waists that can be altered at very little expense of time and trouble and add very materially to the winter wardrobe. As pliable materials are to be the most approved the coming season, it would be well to purchase the nun's vellings offered everywhere at 29 cents a yard, or remnants of soft silks and crepe de chine. Now, if ever, the bargain hunter is repaid for his hunting, waists slightly soiled going for a song, cheap white suits filling bargain tables, summer wrappers and negligees selling for a very little.

To jump from thin stuffs to woollens, broadcloths lead for fall and winter dress goods. A great range of colors in this beautiful goods will be offered, and the choice can be made from the usual shades to the passing fancy. Soft, lightweight cloths are the ones to select, being most suitable for the demands of the present styles. The skirts of broadcloth costumes are to be quite full, but the soft material will fall in clinging effect. The coats are long, with vests more or less-dressy, and extend below the waist from eight to 20 inches. The suit coats generally fit smoothly over the hips, and slope upward toward the front. It would seem the long, loose style is to be followed rather for the old wrap.

As regards finishing touches to the toilet, green continues a color much liked for the under petticoat of silk; mauve, mulberry-red, and golden brown vying with it in the autumn petticoats. These petticoats are from a quarter to half a yard fuller, the fullness beginning just above the knee; and flounces are considerably wider and also fuller. Changeable taffetas continue the favorite material. The wide belt seems wholly to have superseded the narrow, and the two leading ones are the crushed belt and the wide girde. The tendency toward increased width is exaggerated in some of the models to a ridiculous extent. High-grade girdles are shown that have width both back and front, but those high in the back and low in front are the most becoming. Silk is the material usually employed for these, but velvet bids fair to become a rival. Belts of undressed kid are well liked, both in black and colors; one advantage of the kid belt being its pliability, it fitting itself to the figure of the wearer perhaps the best of any of the belt materials. But care should always be taken to adjust the belt when donning it, otherwise it may appear bunglesome. Hand-bags increase in number and variety, ladies generally deeming it necessary to have a shopping-bag and another one for dress occasions. There are numberless kinds of black bags, the purely serviceable and the fancier sort, and the colored bag is coming into more use. Burnt-orange, mottled seal of shade to match the costume, tans and browns, are among the novelties. The "Peggy" continues a favorite, is made of leather of all kinds and colors. It is suitable for either shopping or dressy affairs.

Fall Colorings and Trimmings

BLOUSE SUITABLE FOR DAY OR EVENING

RANGE, while perhaps not holding its own as last year, still is considered a fashionable color. Mauve is much to the fore, that delicate and beautiful purple tone, and combined with lace is very effective.
Mauve and white foulards should have for trimming something in ecru, coral color, or brown, these shades bringing out the mauve very artistically and all blending in well with the autumn tints.
Brown and green combinations, blue and green, and the naturist shades are now employed with excellent results on more elaborate costumes, but flat self-colored braids are chosen for the plainer gowns; a brown cloth costume should be trimmed with brown silk braid, blue cloth with braid to match, and so on. Soft buttons are liked for fall trimmings, and flouncings promise to have vogue, wide taffeta silk ruffles being one of the novelties. Velvet will be employed not only for whole suits, but as trimming to a degree unknown for several years, and will be conspicuous also on the fall and winter millinery.

The soft, pliable velvets, those with lustrous tones, being preferred. Epau-lettes we still have with us, and for these the dressmakers use lace, embroideries, braid and beading. Open-eyelid embroidery, which has been such a craze in Paris all the past season, will be seen even on velvet frocks this year.

MUST EMPLOY UNION MEN.

Milwaukee Judge Enjoins Tailoring
Company from Hiring Nonunion
Labor in Its Shop.

Court Commissioner E. E. Chapin, of Milwaukee, recently issued an injunction requiring William Marnitz, Charles Marnitz, and Charles-Gusta, tailors, to refrain from employing any but union workmen. They are also enjoined from violating the terms of a contract which it is claimed they entered into with the Milwaukee Custom Tailors' union.

Attorney W. R. Rubin, who represented the union and obtained the injunction, expresses the belief that this is the first case in the history of labor unions wherein an employer of labor has been restrained from employing nonunion men.

It is alleged in the summons and complaint, upon which the restraining orders is based, that since the signing of the agreement or contract the Marnitz company has become a member of a secret organization composed of tailors and employers of men under the name of the Milwaukee Tailors' Protective association, the main object of which is to disrupt the tailors' union and to break the agreements entered into between the employers and the union, to deplete the funds of the union, and "to reduce labor to the pitiable position it occupied before it was elevated to its present dignity by labor unions."

BOY INFLATES HIS FACE.

Philadelphia Lad with Cracked Lips Gets Tissues Full of Air on Blowing Machine.

With his face and eyelids swollen to almost twice their normal size, 16-year-old Walter Irwin, of Philadelphia, was taken to the hospital recently, suffering excruciating agony. Irwin's condition was caused by exercising his lungs on a blowing machine in a store near his home. There were several slight lacerations in his lips, which were partially healed. The air forced its way between the tissues and in a few minutes the left side of his face began to swell. One of his companions became alarmed and urged Irwin to go to a hospital.

On the way to the hospital the boy's eyelids began to swell and the pain increased alarmingly. When he reached the institution the eyes were almost closed.

Pressure was applied to the cheeks with tight bandages. Finally the air was forced out through the small openings in his swollen lips, and after two or three hours of this treatment the pains were stopped. The swelling in his cheeks was then gradually reduced. The physicians do not know of a similar case on record.

Novel Sweeping Apparatus.

A comparatively novel mechanical device used in the new Hotel St. Regis, in New York, is the pneumatic sweeping apparatus. It consists of a system of pipes, having a branch in every room connected with vacuum pumps in the basement. In order to operate it the servant, instead of sweeping the floor with a broom and raising assiduously as much dust as she removes, merely attaches a small flexible pipe to the outlet, turns on the valve, applies the nozzle to the dusty surface, and the rubbish is sucked off to the basement. There it is discharged into large sacks, which are taken from the building with other refuse.

Good Fighting Food.

One point appears to have been settled conclusively by the Russo-Japanese war, remarks the Chicago Tribune.
It is that a diet of rice does not spoil a nation's appetite or capacity for fighting.

Mrs. Rosa Adams, niece of the late General Roger Hanson, C. S. A., wants every woman to know of the wonders accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot tell you with pen and ink what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me, suffering from the ills peculiar to the sex, extreme lassitude and that all gone feeling. I would rise from my bed in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed, but before I had used two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to feel the buoyancy of my younger days returning, became regular, could do more work and not feel tired than I had ever been able to do before, so I continued to use it until I was restored to perfect health. It is indeed a boon to sick women and I heartily recommend it.
Yours very truly, Mrs. ROSA ADAMS, 819 12th St., Louisville, Ky."

Any women who are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, general debility, and nervous prostration, should know there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No other medicine for women has received such wide-spread and unqualified indorsement. No other medicine has such a record of female cures.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am very pleased to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for womb and ovarian difficulties from which I have been a sufferer for years. It was the only medicine which was at all beneficial, and within a week after I started to use it, there was a great change in my feelings and looks. I used it for a little over three months, and at the end of that time I suffered no pain at the menstrual period, nor was I troubled with those distressing pains which compelled me to go to bed, and I have not had a headache since. This is nearly a year ago. I always keep a bottle on hand, and take a few doses every week, for I find that it tones up the system and keeps me feeling strong, and I never have that tired out feeling any more.
I certainly think that every woman ought to try this grand medicine, for it would prove its worth. Yours very truly, Miss ELSIE DANFORTH, 203 De Soto St., Memphis, Tenn."

—Ballenger & Scott, of Clark, bought in Lincoln county 256 ewes at $4 each. Their average weight was 100 pounds and they were said to be the best lot in Lincoln county.

—Dennis Guilfoile, of Mt. Sterling, has sold for November delivery, 14 yearling mules to Thos. F. Dunlap, of Woodford county, at $112.50 per head. Mr. Guilfoile has bought 8 weanling mules, to be received in October at from $60 to $90.

—Messrs. R. B. Alexander and S. Z. A. Alexander gathered this year from 40 acres at Laredo, Texas, 45 carloads of onions, averaging 24,000 pounds to the car and bringing between $26,000 and $28,000. The expenses of the crop were about $6,500.

—The honey crop in Robertson county is said to be the largest that was ever known there. The bees work on the sweet clover bloom, which is very plentiful (and some of the farmers cultivate it for feed). It makes the finest of bee pasture, much better than white clover.

—At Winchester Court, Monday, the stock market was dull, and buyers seemed loath to purchase even when sellers offered concessions. About 300 cattle on the market. Little good stuff offered. Four cents for a small bunch of fairly good steers was the best price of the day.

—The acreage of hemp in Central Kentucky is about 15 per cent, greater than last year, being 26,000 as compared with 22,000. It is not as tall and has not had as good growth as last year on account of the cold nights. But the stand is better and the quality is above the average. It is unusually fine grade. The price is the normal price of $5 for 112 pounds. The crop is being cut this week.

White Rock lime by the barrel, cart or wagon load. It is pure white and there is no waste to it. Stuart & Woodford opposite L. & N. freight depot.

Better Than Gold.

I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me untill I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicine I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Oberdorfer, the Druggist.

Fine Bourbon County

STOCK FARM

FOR SALE.

As Administrator of G. G. White, deceased, and agent for his heirs, I will, at 11:30 o'clock a. m., on Monday, September 5th, 1904, offer at public sale, in front of the Court House, in Paris, Ky., the fine Bourbon County farm known as the Gilt Edge Stock Farm, the property of the late G. G. White, situated on the Paris & North Middletown Turnpike, near the City limits of Paris, and containing 547½ acres of land.

This is a No. 1 Bourbon County farm. It is all under cultivation except about 150 acres of virgin soil, which is heavily set in bluegrass, making splendid grazing and is unexcelled for tobacco.

Plenty of stock water in driest season. Has benefit of creek boundary, but no creek included in survey. No part of farm overflows. Creek line furnishes unfailing stock water and saves fencing.

The farm residence is one of the best in Bourbon County, being a large 2½ story brick house, colonial in style, with front veranda supported by massive columns which rise to the eaves of the house. Rooms and halls spacious and well lighted. Cellars, large, light and dry. Interior finish largely in hardwood.

Two first class cisterns at residence, and all necessary outhouses.

Splendid stock barn with large number of box stalls, and good training track. Paddock with good stallion stables adjoining barn, and an in-haustible artesian well at the barn door. Everything in fact for a first-class stock farm.

ALSO, A GOOD TWO-STORY FRAME RESIDENCE

The Paris Distillery Company has for years past paid $300.00 per year for privilege of pumping water from Stoner Creek, and $300.00 per year for depositing offal from cattle pens in the natural basin near the Distillery. The purchaser can probably continue these privileges—either or both—indefinitely, adding $600.00 to annual income from the farm.

This farm is well suited for the large handling of cattle because of proximity of distillery.

I will first offer the farm in two parts and then as a whole, reserving the right to accept or reject any bid.

Division No. 1 contains 271.93 acres, including the brick residence, stock barn, track, and all adjacent improvements, and fronts on the North Middle-town pike and extends back to Stoner Creek, and is bounded on one side by G. W. Wyatt, and on the other side by Division No. 2. This tract contains the natural basin in which the distillery deposits offal from cattle pens, paying $300.00 annually for the privilege.

Division No. 2 contains 276.70 acres, bounded by the Distillery property on the North, by the Mayville railroad and Stoner Creek on the West, by Slouer Creek on the South, and by Division No. 1 and Stoner Creek on the East. The frame residence is on this tract, and the Distillery Company pays $300.00 per annum for the privilege of pumping water over this tract from Stoner Creek—an income of $300 per year without injury to the land.

The surveyor's field notes and plat of entire farm and of the above two Divisions may be seen at the Citizens Bank in Paris, Ky.

In event of the farm selling in the above two divisions the right to use the passway from Division No. 2 over the land of Mrs. Frank Fithian out to the Mayville pike, opposite the G. G. White Distillery, in East Paris, will be included in conveyance of Division No. 2.

Purchaser has privilege of seeding the coming Fall, and full possession given March 1, 1905.

TERMS.—One third cash on March 1, 1905, when deed is made; one-third March 1, 1906; one third March 1, 1907—deferred payments to bear 6 per cent. interest from March 1, 1905.

The purchaser will not be required to give security for the deferred payments but will be required to give security for the first payment due March 1, 1905, and his notes without surety for the deferred payments, to secure which a lien will be reserved in the deed. Purchaser may pay more than one-third of the purchase money if preferred.

For further information call on or address the undersigned in Paris, Ky.
